The management of pharmaceutical preparations, medical devices, and consumable medical materials is indispensable for the needs of patients in hospitals. The implementation of pharmaceutical services in hospitals must ensure the availability of drugs including pharmaceutical preparations, medical devices, and consumable medical materials that are safe, quality, useful, and affordable.

The management of pharmaceutical preparations, medical devices, and medical consumables in the procurement of pharmaceutical installations to distributors is observed to often experience inconsistencies in the process of waiting times for drug shipments. This will result in the drug distribution process in units at Eka Husada Hospital being less than optimal. The purpose of this study is to find out the overview of the procurement profile in the aspect of purchasing and receiving goods at the Pharmaceutical Installation of Eka Husada Hospital, Gresik Regency.

This type of research is qualitative research. Data collection was carried out by direct observation of the procurement profile object to get an overview of the process of purchasing and receiving goods at the pharmaceutical installation of Eka Husada Hospital. The inclusion criteria in this study are Purchase in the form of an Order Letter to the distributor where there is a temporary rejection confirmation letter (drug vacancy) in April and May 2024 and receipt of purchase invoice data in accordance with the content of the order letter that has been made and given to the distributor. The results of the research show that procurement in the purchasing aspect at the pharmaceutical installation of Eka Husada Hospital has implemented purchasing ordering activities for medicinal supplies, medical devices, consumable medical materials according to standard operational procedures by using order letters according to quantity, waiting time and pricing, however It is still found that there is a temporary lack of stock availability at several distributors through order confirmation letters from the distributor. Likewise, the receipt aspect was appropriate by paying attention to the address, quantity, batch number, expiry date on the purchase invoice.
